

Employers offering commission-based job opportunities are able to take advantage of Stevenson University's recruitment resources if your organization meets all the following criteria:

- x Does not charge prospective employees for training or testing
- x Does not require prospective employees to purchase products, services, or supplies contingent upon their employment with, or on behalf of, that company/individual
- x Does not charge prospective employees for startup fees and/or kits
- x Specifies upfront the required training, licensure, certifications and testing
- x Details the position's compensation structure, including how and when prospective employees will be compensated, including during and after required training
- x Is not based on a "pyramid" or "multi-level" type networking structure requiring or encouraging the recruitment of others who recruit others, etc. to sell products or services

I have read and understand the Commission-Based Jobs Policy and agree to the terms and conditions of the policy.
